

Federal Agents Blame Politics for Alien Trial in New Jersey

WASHINGTON — Justice Department agents, who played the biggest part in apprehending the Lindbergh kidnaper, are definitely skeptical about the transfer of the case to New Jersey.

They attribute New Jersey eagerness to get the case chiefly to one thing—politics. A hot election fight is brewing in that state, and the Hauptmann trial for certain officials means publicity.

What Justice Department agents consider to be the saner course is to go to trial first in New York on a charge of extortion. New York was where the ransom was paid. The case against Hauptmann on this charge, they believe, is perfect.

On the murder and kidnapping charge, however, the case is still being worked up. Their strategy would be to get a conviction on extortion in New York, then move the case to Jersey for the murder charge. This way there would be no slip-up.

Discretion

Navy Secretary Swanson loves a political fight, in fact he is a real fire-eater when it comes to battling for naval appropriations. But he is that as it may be, he considers discretion the better part of valor.

So the other day when he had to decide between two conflicting allegiances at a football game, he ducked!

It was on the occasion of the colorful Navy-Virginia classic, played in Griffith Stadium before a large crowd. Swanson was invited to be the guest of honor.

The entire Naval Academy corps attended and the student body from the University of Virginia.

But the grizzled Swanson, after long deliberation, turned down the invitation.

An Admiral, surprised asked him about it.

"Well, it's this way," replied Swanson, with a twist of his long and fierce mustachios, "I love football games and I'd love this one particularly. But I'm afraid to take a chance. You see, I'm an alumnus of the University of Virginia. That's one side. Also I'm Secretary of the Navy. That's the other side. And, he said with a grin, "I'm old enough to know when I'm putting myself on the spot. I'll stay home and read, thanks."

Plenty to Do

The board that took over General Hugh Johnson's job has found plenty to do.

In the two weeks it has been functioning it has sat in continuous session, from early morning until late afternoon.

So far relations among the seven members have been harmonious, although tintured by several warm debates.

Whether this state of amity is a real peace, or merely an armed truce, remains to be seen. The group as yet has not tackled a serious controversial issue, such as wages, hours, price-fixing.

Its attention to date has been concentrated on dealing with three urgent administrative problems, which it discovered would have to be solved promptly and decisively if the NRA was to be saved from complete demoralization:

1. Strengthening of subordinate executive personnel. In the search for good men, the board is canvassing the record of every ex-NRA executive, with the hope of getting the best to return.

2. Quicker transaction of business. This was one of the most serious weaknesses of the Johnson regime. Controversial questions were buck-passed from administrator to administrator, some of them hanging fire for months.

3. Strengthening and tightening of enforcement. To this end the board is studying the operation of various enforcement methods, features of codes which have proved most enforceable, and those which have caused greatest trouble.

Hands Off Labor

In grappling with these administrative problems the board has

HAUPTMANN'S EXTRADITION FIGHT STARTS

SUSPECT LOOKS WAN

New Jersey Not to Call Lindbergh to Stand

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was the central figure today at the Habeas Corpus hearing at which he is fighting efforts of the New Jersey authorities to extradite him to that state for trial on the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby.

The courtroom was jammed to capacity long before the proceedings began. When the doors of the courtroom were opened there was a rush of newspaper men for seats. More than 100 reporters elbowed into seats at tables just back of the lawyers' railing.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey indicated that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh would not be a witness.

"We do not anticipate needing him or calling him," said Wilentz.

FOLEY MAY HELP

District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx said he would sit in at the hearing and assist the New Jersey authorities in every way possible.

At 11:10 a. m. most of the lawyers trooped in.

Wilentz, Foley and Defense Counsel James M. Fawcett stepped up to the bench and held a whispered consultation with Judge Hammer.

The Hauptmann hearing was then called to order.

Hauptmann, meantime, was taken from the Bronx-co jail, placed in a prison van and brought to the courthouse under guard of three deputy sheriffs.

Several hundred spectators massed around the jail as Hauptmann was led out to the van.

Hauptmann was pale, his cheeks sunken and his facial expression grim. He wore a blue and white handkerchief in his breast pocket.

Defense Attorney Fawcett offered to the court the original writ of habeas corpus showing its service on the sheriff. It was received in evidence.

Attorney General Wilentz of New Jersey offered in evidence the warrant of extradition. It, too, was accepted.

7 HUNTED IN LAKE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—Two coast guard boats put out from the Cleveland coast guard station today to search for a party of seven aboard a small speed boat, more than 12 hours overdue on a pleasure trip in Lake Erie.

Fearful that the party may have suffered some mishap, parents of the passengers appealed to the coast guards today to search for the boat. The boat left Rocky River, a suburb, yesterday afternoon and failed to return on scheduled time, 9 o'clock last night, the coast guards were told.

GEARHART HONORED BY TROPHY AWARD

Sam E. Gearhart, advertising manager of the Southwest American and Times Record, of Fort Smith, Ark., a nephew of Mrs. C. K. Howard, E. Main-st., and a son of George W. Gearhart, who makes his home in Fort Smith, has received the Gene Kelly trophy awarded at the conclusion of the meeting of the Midwest Advertisers' association in Kansas City.

The trophy is awarded annually to the advertising manager submitting the best idea for Gene Kelly, publisher of the Sioux City, Iowa, Tribune. The award to Gearhart was based on a public wedding staged by his newspaper and Fort Smith merchants.

Mr. Gearhart and his wife were Pumpkin Show visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Howard and friends and other relatives here.

950 HUNGARIANS NEAR DEATH IN SHAFT

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 15.—Joining in the dramatic challenge hurled from 1,000 feet below the earth by 950 of their fellow-workers, 1,200 Christian Socialist miners led by a priest today proclaimed their participation in a hunger strike designed to force increase in a starvation wage.

A short while after the leaders of the striking miners sent a message from their underground tomb reading: "Buy 950 coffins; we are prepared to die," the Christian Socialist supporters appeared at the mine entrance and demanded admission to the shaft. They were refused.

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 15.—"Buy 950 coffins. We are prepared to die!"

That grim message came literally from the grave today as nearly a thousand miners, bent on mass suicide because life on $2 a week was not worth living, grew weaker for want of air, water, and food in their self-imposed living tomb a thousand feet down a pitch-dark shaft.

While their women-folk outside fought guards around the pit-head barring them from joining and dying with the miners, there was no sign that the mine operators would capitulate and give the men the $1.50 a week wage increase they demand.

FRESH AIR GONE
Entombed for four days, the miners were believed today to have only a few hours more to live. They are understood to have finally carried out their threat to turn off the ventilating machinery and shut off the water supply. Without fresh air, they could not last the day, it is believed.

Five trade union officials, sent by Premier Julius Gombosi to negotiate with the miners, face death with them, for the strikers held the emissaries as hostages.

The minister of the interior was rushed to the mine in an attempt to free the five prisoners.

The miners are dying in protest against the part-time system which the owners say was forced by economic conditions. The men demanded enough work so that they could earn $3.50 a week. The Danube Steam Navigation co., however, said that it even now has

SCREW DRIVER 'GANG' HUNTED

Blum Home Robbed of $15, Attempt Made To Enter E. C. Ebert Home.

SCHOOL RANSACKED

Tool Used To Pry Open Windows of Two Houses.

Police today were seeking a gang of "screw driver" thieves who broke into two residences and a school building during the past week-end. Entrance to at least two of the places was gained by prying windows open with a screw driver.

Clues are being investigated with the possibility that an early arrest may be made.

The residence of Ed Blum, 374 Watt-st., was entered between 7 and 8 p. m. Sunday with a rear window being pried open with a screw driver. Mr. Blum reported about $15 stolen and the house ransacked. The thieves left by a door.

At 3:30 a. m. Sunday a window at the residence of E. C. Ebert, 121 N. Washington-st., was pried open and raised but Edward Ebert, Jr., asleep in the room, was awakened by cold air striking his face. He turned on the lights and saw a man standing outside the window. He called to his parents in an upstairs room and the man fled. Whether he had any aides was not learned.

The screw driver was left behind by the thief.

The High-st. school building, in the same vicinity as the Blum and Ebert residences, was broken into over the week-end with a glass being broken to gain entrance. Police believe the screw driver used in the Blum and Ebert breaking jobs was stolen there.

No loot was obtained at the school.

The penalty for entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season is punishable by 20 years to life in the penitentiary if the culprits are captured.

Officers Smith and Shaesten investigated the Blum robbery while Officer McCrady was working on the school house job Monday.

He had come to his home in the Rue Marbeuf from his country estate only a fortnight ago.

Dr. Howard Jones, author and physician, retains his place in the new "Who's Who in America," the new edition recently received at the Public Library discloses.

Dr. Jones has been in the book in recent years. His father, the late Dr. Nelson Jones, was also listed in "Who's Who."

MAN ADMITS KILLING GIRL

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—A 24-year-old relief worker, Lawrence Stone, signed a confession in police headquarters here early today that he murdered Nancy Keen Costigan, 5-year-old, Myers, Dean Throckmorton, all on the Democratic side. The Republicans have had to go out of the city to hear most of their speakers with Simeon D. Fess, Clarence Brown, Paul Herbert, Renick Dunlap and others appearing in Kingston. Dunlap spoke here Saturday afternoon, a gathering of women hearing his address. Wallace's talk wasn't political but served to "help things along."

The confession, according to Chief Inspector Michael I. Silverstein of the Mount Vernon police, solves one of the most brutal and fiendish crimes in police annals. The confession was signed shortly before 4 a. m. today after Stone had been grilling continuously since his arrest soon after the gruesome discovery of the little girl's charred bones in the furnace of the apartment late yesterday.

A murder charge was formally lodged against Stone prior to the signing of the confession. According to police this was based primarily on the finding of blood-stains form either within the county or near enough for many local persons to attend the meetings.

Foremost among the speakers who have visited this county are Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; A. Vic Donahey, C. C. Dill, Mel G. Underwood, George S. Myers, Dean Throckmorton, all on the Democratic side. The Republicans have had to go out of the city to hear most of their speakers with Simeon D. Fess, Clarence Brown, Paul Herbert, Renick Dunlap and others appearing in Kingston. Dunlap spoke here Saturday afternoon, a gathering of women hearing his address. Wallace's talk wasn't political but served to "help things along."

AFTER BRICKER

The Republican executive committee is angling for the services of John W. Bricker, attorney general, for a speech sometime prior to the election but as yet nothing definite has been reported. The Democrats, who map definite plans for their campaign tomorrow evening, are bringing Martin L. Davey here next Tuesday evening for an open air meeting if the weather is suitable.

The election is only three weeks after tomorrow on Nov. 6 and many of the candidates on the county ticket are in the midst of active campaigning. Their efforts, however, have been overshadowed by the influx of state speakers.

One of the most interesting fights is that between Congressman Mel G. Underwood and Renick W. Dunlap, of Kingston. The word 'fight' is the proper one because that is what it has developed into. Underwood received one of the finest boosts in his campaign last week when Vic Donahey and Senator Dill urged the voters to support him.

DAVEY TO ADDRESS 5 MEETINGS TUESDAY

Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democratic party candidate for governor, will engage in a busy day next Tuesday, Oct. 23, when he is scheduled to come here to speak.

At noon he is scheduled to speak in Lebanon, Warren-co., the stronghold of his opponent, Clarence Brown; two hours later he is booked in Wilmington, Clinton-co.; at 4 o'clock he speaks in Hillsboro, Highland-co., and 7 o'clock in Chillicothe, and at 9 o'clock here.

ported to Warden P. E. Thomas as that Pierpont had started to rave and rant against society which decreed that he must die for the murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber at Lima last October 12.

"He's cussing like a drunken sailor," were the direct quotations from Warden Thomas.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—The "death watch" over Harry Pierpont, doomed Dillinger gangster, started at the Ohio penitentiary today.

Guards' lines both inside and outside the prison were strengthened and precautions were taken, according to Warden P. E. Thomas, to prevent the sullen Pierpont from committing suicide.

Pierpont, scheduled to die in the electric chair Wednesday, refused to re-embrace the Roman Catholic religion. He had been converted to that faith while in the Michigan City prison in Indiana.

"DIE AS BELIEVED"

According to Thomas, the condemned hoodlum told his parents that he did not wish to die a priest because "I want to die as I lived."

Pierpont, according to the warden, appears dejected, refusing to read magazines sent back to him in "death row." He continually sits with his head in his hands and his elbows on his knees, Thomas declared.

According to the warden, all guards at the big state prison have been ordered to maintain the strictest watch over death row and the walls of the prison.

Suspicious cars with out-of-state licenses seen in the vicinity of the penitentiary were being checked by local police to prevent Pierpont from receiving any "outside aid" in any possible attempted break.

At the same time, Warden Thomas warned the guards against a relaxation of vigilance after Pierpont is executed. He pointed out that other prisoners may attempt breaks after the special so-called "Dillinger squad" is disbanded.

DAVEY AND BROWN TO TALK TONIGHT

G. D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, received a telegram and a card, Monday, from Martin L. Davey and Clarence J. Brown, respectively, notifying him that both will broadcast this evening on the "Schools of Ohio" topic.

Davey is on WAIU, Columbus, and WKRC, Cincinnati, at 6:45 and on WTAM, Cleveland, and WSAI, Cincinnati, at 10:30, while Brown speaks over WLW, Cincinnati, and WHK, Cleveland, at 7:30 o'clock.

5 DAY PERIOD CLOSES TODAY; TRY 'AD' PLAN

Negotiation Promised Before End of Day in Original Kidnap Note

MONEY IN P. O. BOX

Milk-Man's Clue, Blood on Pier Discounted

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—The "zero hour" approaches today in the brutal kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Stoll.

The time limit in which the abductor promised to communicate with Berry V. Stoll, husband of the 26-year-old victim, expires at 4:20 p. m.

When Mrs. Stoll, ill and running a high temperature, was gashed over the head and dragged from her home last Wednesday, the kidnaper left a ransom note which read in part:

"We will communicate with you within five days."

NO MESSAGE YET

The fifth day dawned without any known message being received from the kidnaper or the kidnapers.

Authorities declined to go on record as to whether they believed the young society woman was dead or alive.

An optimistic note was sounded inferentially when Harold Nathan, department of justice agent in charge of the investigation, said:

"When Mrs. Stoll is returned we hope to be able to give out more information."

Although the gates were kept ajar, figuratively speaking, on the Stoll estate in the hope that the victim might be returned, there was a noticeable increase in activity by police authorities.

A number of persons were questioned, Federal Agent Nathan admitted.

Searching parties continued to comb the area.

A police squad car was on duty for the first time within calling distance of the Stoll household.

Among those questioned were James E. Scales, milk-wagon driver, who told of colliding with a sedan early on Sunday morning. Scales said the driver drew a revolver and threatened him. He said he believed Mrs. Stoll was in the rear seat of the sedan.

NOT IMPORTANT

Federal Agent Nathan said that the incident was of no importance. "I believe Scales was honestly mistaken," he said.

Another "lead" discounted after a check up was the report of three youths that they had found blood on the pier leading to an abandoned boathouse.

Before the time limit set by the kidnaper expires, the husband of Mrs. Stoll was expected to issue another radio appeal to her captor. He has made two previous

TRANSPACIFIC AIR MAIL IS PLANNED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—The first Trans-Pacific air mail flight on a proposed route to China is to be made within the next few weeks by the Pan American Airways, it was indicated here today. According to J. T. Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, the ships will leave the coast either from Los Angeles or San Francisco, bound for Hawaii, Midway Island, Lake Island, Guam and thence to the Philippines and China.

A new type of seaplane, called the "Brazilian Clipper," will be used in the service. The craft is capable of carrying 2,000 pounds of mail and express and has accommodations for 32 passengers and a crew of six.

The post office department is ready to ask congress for the necessary appropriations for pledging its support through mail contracts, Trippe indicated.

Big Ten Results Cause Surprise to Grid Fans

By International News Service
Big Ten football fans blinked their eyes in bewilderment today as they surveyed the results of Saturday's gridiron clashes.

This was what they saw:
Chicago 27, Michigan 0.
Illinois 14, Ohio State 13.
Indiana 6, Temple 6.
Wisconsin 28, South Dakota State 7.
Stanford 20, Northwestern 0.
Notre Dame 18, Purdue 7.
Nebraska 14, Iowa 13.
Chicago's defeat of Michigan caused the greatest surprise but because of what sport writers call "local interest" Illinois' victory over Ohio resulted in the greatest comment here in the state.

LOST TWO GOALS
The Illini simply swept the Bucs off their feet. That and the fact that Ohio didn't get two touchdowns that it might have had when it was within the shadows of its opponents' goal was responsible for the loss.

Chicago's defeat of Michigan simply emphasized the promise that this, 1934, threatens to be the craziest of all football seasons. Ohio meets Chicago early in November.
Purdue's loss to Notre Dame also caused some surprise but the boiler-makers were without their star back, Purvis, for chapters of the game.

However, the defeats and wins

were marked up forever in the record books. It appeared that Michigan has been deposed as Big Ten champion and now the only question left to decide was who shall be the next king of the western conference.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15 — With hopes blasted for an undefeated season and chances for a Big Ten Championship seriously undermined, Ohio State gridgers today returned to the practice field to pick up the remnants of a promising career that faded Saturday when Illinois beat the Scarlet and Gray 14 to 13.

Emerging from the bruising conflict with the Illini with no more than the usual crop of minor bumps, the Buckeyes today appeared ready and eager to go back to work and regain some of the prestige lost by a costly misplay on the Illinois goal line when someone missed a signal and a perfect pass from center went bounding away, and with it the chances for a touchdown that might have kept State's record clean.

Illinois Repulses Ohio State, 14-13

A badly beaten Ohio State football team came to life a just a trifle too late, and after a marvelous rally that had 35,000 homecomers worried, fell just a trifle short to lose a 14-13 verdict to Illinois at Memorial Stadium at Champaign, Ill. In the above photo Jack Fischer of Illinois (arrow) after taking the ball stepped into action only to be brought down by some of the Buckeyes in this wild thrilling game.

About This And That

DELAWARE COMES HERE

Circleville football fans will be given an opportunity next Friday to see the Tigers in action against a Central Buckeye league foe, Delaware. The Tigers have yet to defeat a Delaware football team but are hoping to make a good showing Friday. The team looked somewhat rejuvenated last week although Grandview won, 26-0. The showing of Otis Mader and Normie Coleman was pleasing to Coach Pete Herberholz.

WHAT OF MICHIGAN

The downfall of the University of Michigan was enough to make prognosticators loop the loop. It is doubtful if two sports writers in the country picked Chicago's down trodden team to beat the Wolverines. Jay Berwanger marked himself as one of the best in the business. State's defeat was a bitter pill to swallow but for once Columbus sports writers do not seem to be blaming the coach for the loss. Inexperience is the factor cited and it seems this is a logical reason. It is a safe bet that Buzz Wetzel will see plenty of action from now on. It's Colgate here this week.

WESLEYAN IN SPIRIT

If Ohio Wesleyan's offense can perform every week like it did Saturday against Marshall with Howard White as acting captain, we'd suggest that White get that job all the time. Turley was the star of the game, however, scoring a touchdown, tossing passes for two more, kicking three goals after touchdown and booting a perfect field goal. He played less than half the time.

SMITH IS WINNER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—Steady uphill fighting abetted by two spectacular sub-par rounds had clinched for Horton Smith today the championship of the first Louisville open golf tournament. The 26-year-old ex-caddy who pros at Oak Park, Ill., captured the meet yesterday with a 72-hole total of 286.

This was 3 under the card of Craig Wood, who had 289 for second place. Tommy Armour finished third with 290. Smith was thirteenth at the end of the first day's play but the second and third rounds found him blazing through in 70 each—two under par. With a 3-hole lead going into the last eighteenth he coasted to victory, duplicating his 73 of last Friday.

Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions Only Unbeaten Teams In National League.

By International News Service

Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions continued undefeated in the professional football league today after a hectic week-end. The Bears drubbed the Cardinals 20 to 0 while the Lions were winning from Philadelphia in the east, 10-0.

Other scores of Sunday games were:
New York, 14; Brooklyn, 0;
Green Bay, 41; Cincinnati, 20;
Boston, 39; Pittsburgh, 0.
Ronzani and Feathers crossed the Cardinal goal while Jack Manders added the extra points and scored six more points by placements. Twelve thousand were in the stands.

The Lions, transplanted from Portsmouth, have yet to be scored upon but were forced to try harder than usual to score on the Philadelphia Eagles. Caddell ran 22 yards for the first touchdown, Clark adding the point, then contributing a dropkick for the other three.

Kenny Strong starred for the Giants as they beat Shipwreck Kelly's Dodgers. Strong crossed the goal line for both touchdowns and added one of the points, Michigan Harry Newman getting the other.

Cliff Battles, of Kentucky fame, ran wild for Boston with Pittsburgh being unable to stop him.

Hank Bruder, Northwestern's hard luck boy, became fair-haired Sunday to ramble unimpeded through the Cincinnati Reds, Greey Bay having an easy time. Bruder scored three touchdowns and added four points to the score.

FAREWELL PARTY

The members of the congregation of the Lutheran church held a farewell party in the form of a chicken supper for Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Glick, son David and daughter Gretchen. About 150 members of the church and Sunday school and neighbors and friends were present. Mr. C. A. Higley acted as toastmaster for the affair, calling on several members of the Council and Sunday school for comments. Mr. Stewart Logsdon spoke in behalf of the choir. Mrs. W. A. Bowers, president of the ladies aid, presented Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Glick an occasional chair, Miss Gretchen Glick a little red chair, and David Glick two books. Rev. Glick also received a personal gift from Mrs. Emma Wright. The Brotherhood at their monthly meeting Wednesday night presented Rev. Glick ten dollars. Rev. Glick in his response, sketched the past eleven years, and expressed gratitude and friendship showed him by the congregation. Every-one joined in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and Rev. Glick dismissed the meeting with a short prayer.

The District rally of the W. M. A. will be held at the Ashville U. B. church on Thursday, October 18. There will be two sessions, afternoon and evening, with a pot luck dinner at six o'clock. The programs will be inspiring as well as educational. All are invited.

William Lane will not be able to enter law school this fall as he had planned, since he is still a patient at U. S. Marine hospital at Ellis Island, New York, where he is slowly recovering from an attack of pleurisy, contracted in August while on board a trans-Atlantic liner.

W. A. Bowers who was injured in an automobile accident last Friday, suffered a back-set Friday morning.

Howard B. Camp, the Main-st barber, has discontinued house-keeping and has taken rooms with Mrs. Amy Harris, on Cromley-st.

Ashville was well represented at the Circleville Pumpkin show last week.

Mrs. Julia Weaver was the guest of relatives in Columbus, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Griffith entertained the following guests at their home on Long-st, Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Griffith, Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Fay Johnson and Albert, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffith, Lancaster, and Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith and son John of Circleville.

Mrs. Ola Forquer entertained her daughter, Mrs. Paul Ford and daughter Joan, of Cool Grove, this week.

Mrs. Edna Neece and sons, Lowell and Paul, visited with Circleville relatives over the week-end.

Mrs. Cora Brinker spent last Sunday in Columbus the guest of her sisters, Mrs. H. A. Niles and Miss Knepper.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baum entertained J. B. Outram and family of Urbana, Saturday.

Lawrence Peters and family spent Sunday in Columbus, the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parks.

The following members of Troop 84, the local Boy Scouts, have received appointments for service at Ohio State football games this year: Jasper Hedges, Richard Hedges, Hewitt Cromley, Chester Rocky, William Bowers and Ralph Stevenson.

William Larue, a local boy graduate of the Ashville high school and grandson of Mrs. Ollie Hoover of Long-st, is a patient at the U. S. Marine hospital at Ellis Island, N. Y., where he is recovering from an attack of pleurisy.

Inspector Silverstein told reporters he believed the girl, who was paying a week-end visit to her aunt, who lives in the apartment house, was brutally assaulted in the cellar of the building, beaten over the head and then thrown, probably alive, into the roaring oil furnace.

James Nash and George Hutchinson, employees of the apartment building, found the child's remains in the furnace following the discovery of blood stains on the floor of the basement.

Cheering up THE HOME

• The home must remain where it stands. Perhaps it's bored with "the same four walls". Cheer it up. Here's how: A bright cushion or two will make the easy chair "easier". Colorful scarfs take away the reproachful look some pieces of furniture assume. Woman's workshop—the kitchen—is cheered by amusing towels and saucy curtains. A patchwork quilt on bed, cot, or divan, invites repose and comfort.

All this is so simple to do by the use of Alice Brooks easy-to-make patterns. What materials to use: harmonious color combinations, and the quickest and most economical way of making are suggested in each pattern.

Artificial Radium

THE value of radium in the treatment of disease gives world-wide importance to the announcement in London that artificial creation of radioactive elements for practical use is a possibility of the near future.

The announcement did not come from some previously obscure scientist but from a source that probably is regarded as the highest authority on radium. It was made by Mrs. Irene Curie Joliot and her husband, Jean Frederic Joliot. Mrs. Joliot is a daughter of the discoverer of radium.

She, like her mother and assisted by her husband, has made a deep study of radium and already has to her credit important discoveries in this field. For some time she and her husband have been trying to produce artificial radioactive elements. Working with ordinary stable substances such as boron, aluminum and magnesium, which are plentifully available in nature, they have succeeded in producing what they call "radionitrogen," a substance that has many of the properties of radium.

The fact that their experiments to date have yielded results that caused them to express the belief that success would finally crown their efforts must be taken as highly encouraging. The Jolios went so far as to express the view that artificially created radioactive elements even superior to the natural radium "in medicine and in other practical fields" was a possibility.

The costliness of radium has restricted the use of this element as well as experiments with it. Finding of a comparatively cheap substitute of similar properties would open the way to a much greater use of it as a curative agent as well as make possible more exhaustive research work.

Tom, Dick and Harriet

IN a pertinent and striking paraphrase of a familiar saying a Washington correspondent the other day, wrote:

"Later they got it (stock) listed on the stock exchange, and sales were made to one Tom, Dick or Harriet."

The correspondent has dropped Harry from the triumvirate so exclusive and substituted Harriet, thus giving women representation, as befits their greatly enlarged place in all human activities, even on the speculative market. There ought to be other adaptations of the same kind and for the same reason. We suggest that John Doe and Richard Roe be superseded by John Doe and Rachel Roe. In justice to women's place in public affairs Uncle Sam should be coupled or alternated with Aunt Mary.

The victor at least should share the spoils. Of course, if spoils and honors are to be shared under the new feminine freedom, so must the responsibilities. The goddess of liberty was created feminine when women had little to do with the liberties or the oppressions of the human race. Now the figure becomes more consistent, but one of these days man, maddened by inglorious relegation, will insist that the torch is too heavy for feminine hands alone.

"DEATH SONG"

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unpopular patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon, and the other, from a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillyer, playwright and patient, agree the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors. Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph. Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You," sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, Mark's nurse. Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, disappears. Clendening claims he saw a piece of paper under the clock on Felipa's table, but no trace can be found of it. Mark's theory is that Dr. Calvert having gone there alone, may have found the note but denied seeing it. Loren Ruxton claims he was out with Sue at the time of the tragedy and took a snapshot of Lakeside Cottage a little after two o'clock, yet Sue had not left the hospital until five minutes to three. Mark fears Felipa was also murdered and suggests that Finn drag the lake. A pair of hedge shears, wrapped in overalls and believed to be the murder weapon, are found in the water. The gardeners are questioned, but Mark believes it was someone else disguised in overalls. Loren and Sue bring a "Waiting For You" record to Mark with the news that the music store sent another copy to Clendening that day.

CHAPTER XVIII

Mark chuckled as he took the record from its envelope. He read the label on it and then said, "Did you get the catalogue?"

Loren produced it from his pocket and Mark thumbed through it. He found his name and read it. His lips pursed.

"I'm a sap," he said. "I should have had you get me another of Vail's records."

"What do you intend to do with it?" I asked.

"Never mind, you scoffer," he said. "You don't believe in me, so why should I let you in on my secrets? Drag the phonograph over, will you?"

I carried his portable phonograph from the desk and put it on his bedside table.

"I'm afraid you've wasted your money, Mark, unless you miss the sound of Vail's voice," Loren said. "It must be one of the gardeners."

"Says you. If it's a gardener, that record still isn't explained."

Mark put the disc on the phonograph and released the lever. Once again the song that now seemed to symbolize Vail's death rang through the sanatorium grounds.

It was uncanny and disquieting, listening to Vail's voice again. If I had not been certain that Mark had some definite purpose in playing it, I would have protested. As it was, I sat quietly, feeling very uncomfortable and embarrassed, as though I were a party to a breach of manners. Mark listened intently to the song, and when it was ended, he nodded in a satisfied manner, but he offered no explanation.

"I thought I'd never have to listen to that again," Loren said.

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

Janet Gaynor's and Charles Farrell's starring vehicle "Change of Heart," opened at the Grand Theatre on Sunday.

Adapted from Kathleen Norris' recent best-seller, "Marhatten Love Song," "Change of Heart" has a brilliant supporting cast headed by James Dunn, Ginger Rogers, Beryl Mercer, Shirley Temple, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Drue Leyton, Irene Franklin and Barbara Barondess. John Blystone is directing.

AT THE CLIFTONA

"The tone of the voice is just as important to feminine charm as the shape of the body . . ."

This statement was made recently by Grace Moore, star of Columbia's sensational musical "One Night of Love," showing tonight at the Cliftona Theatre, in a plea for the improvement of tone and diction in women of today.

"Everyone," she said, "has a key of living and speaking. The key of speaking should be the reflection of personality and mode of living."

"However, it is seldom that a woman will devote any time or thought to perfection of her voice. This is regrettable in the extreme, for incalculable illusions have been shattered when the idol has spoken."

HORSE SHORTAGE

EFFINGHAM, Ill. — Surpluses may exist in everything else, but Effingham county faces a shortage of horses. During the last 15 years, the number of horses and mules in the county has dwindled steadily, so that now there are not sufficient breeding mares to meet the future needs of the farmers.

"Please don't play it every day, as Vail did."

"Once is enough, I think," Mark answered. "Sorry to raise the dead like that."

We all sat silent. That song seemed to have deprived us all of the ability to make inconsequential conversation. Into that uncomfortable restraint came James Ruxton. He looked pale and ill and he seemed to be struggling to suppress some agitation and indignation.

"Good afternoon," he said. He looked at the phonograph and then at Mark, his thin lips tightened. "Surely you weren't playing . . ."

He paused and Mark finished his sentence. "Waiting For You? Why, yes, I was. I hope it didn't annoy you."

"Really, Mr. Hillyer!" he said, "I realize that a guest is hardly privileged to question your actions, but I don't think it's quite the proper thing to do, under the circumstances."

"Uncle Jim—" Loren began, but Mark interrupted:

"I was merely trying to confirm a theory," he said. "My experiment's finished and I don't think I'll find it necessary to repeat it."

James Ruxton took an immaculate handkerchief from his breast pocket and wiped his lips. "Thank you," he said. "You can understand what unpleasant associations that record has for me."

"I quite understand, Mr. Ruxton," Mark said gently.

"I'm afraid you're going to hear it again, Uncle Jim," Loren said. "Clendening sent to the village for the same record today."

James Ruxton's thin body stiffened. His eyebrows drew together and his eyes became hard and angry. "I believe I can attend to that," he said.

Thinly, from down the hill another phonograph began to play the same song. It seemed like a gesture of defiance from Clendening, coming at that moment, but I realized that the record had just been delivered to him and that undoubtedly he was trying it on his machine immediately. In a moment even James Ruxton saw the sardonic humor of it and he smiled, grudgingly.

Hastily, to distract him, Sue said, "Do you want to see the photographs Loren took yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ruxton?" She laughed merrily. "He's the world's worst photographer, I believe. You see what he got out of it."

If he couldn't take good pictures of you, sweetheart," Mark said, "he may as well throw away his camera."

"That's nothing to what I did to Uncle Jim," Loren said. "I spoiled a whole roll of film on him and the cottage the day before the dance."

Sue opened her bag and, walking to the bed, handed some of the prints to Mark and some to James Ruxton. Loren and I walked over and stood behind them.

There were several pictures of Sue, all but one out of focus and that one under-exposed. We passed them from hand to hand, laughing, and Loren good-naturedly joined in our amusement.

"It's the modern technique," he said. "If James Joyce and Gertrude Stein can write things that don't make sense, why can't I take photographs that don't make sense?"

"You have grounds for a damage suit," I said to Sue.

"These of Loren are good," his uncle said to Sue. "I suppose you took them, Sue."

"Yes," she said. "Isn't he handsome?"

"Here's one of Lakeside Cottage," Mark said. "Hello, who's this? Look!"

He passed the print to me. The picture was a bad one. It had been over-exposed, and the cottage tilted at a slight angle. But beside it, visible below the branches of a tree in the foreground, I could see the body of a man facing the house.

"Good Lord!" I cried. "He's standing right beside Vail's door!"

"Let me see!" James Ruxton exclaimed. He pushed close to me and took the photograph in trembling fingers. "Why, so he is! It's a gardener. See, he's wearing overalls! He turned to Loren, his eyes gleaming excitedly. "What time did you take this, Loren?"

"About two-thirty," he said. "Let me see!"

He studied the photograph for a minute, with Sue looking over his shoulder. Then he turned to Mark.

"Remember when you asked me this morning if I'd noticed anything unusual around the cottage yesterday afternoon?" he asked. "I said I hadn't, but I wasn't quite sure. I had an idea in the back of my mind that I had seen somebody. I must have remembered seeing the gardener when I snapped that picture, but you got so used to seeing people like that that you don't really notice them."

Mark nodded. "That's perfectly true. They become a part of the scenery after a while. Let me see it again."

He took back the photograph and studied it. "And you took this at two-thirty?"

Loren nodded. "About then," he said. Suddenly a look of alarm flashed over his face. I could understand it. In his excitement he had forgotten the lie he had told Mark that morning. Now he recalled it.

He said lamely, "You asked me about it this morning, and I said I took the picture a little after two. When Sue reminded me that she didn't meet until three, I realized it must have been considerably later. Mark, do you think that's the— the person who killed Vail?"

"It's impossible," Mark said. "A thing like that couldn't happen. But I don't see how it can be any one else." Suddenly he laughed. "By Jove, imagine it! A picture of the murderer, and it might be anybody in the sanatorium! The tree there cuts off the head, and the body might be anyone's." He laughed again. "What a joke on Finn!"

"It seems unfortunate to me, rather than amusing," James Ruxton said. "Let me see it again. Perhaps it would be possible to identify the man."

But when he had examined it more closely, he shook his head. "No, I'm afraid you're right, Mr. Hillyer." He seemed disappointed. His face sagged in tired lines. "What a misfortune!" he said.

"Oh, Loren," Sue said, "if only you were a better photographer, you might have solved this awful thing."

Mark picked up the telephone. "Tell Mr. Finn that I want to see him as soon as he can come," he told the operator. "I've got something of the utmost importance for him."

He replaced the receiver and said to Loren, "Have you the negative of this?"

Sue pulled out a dozen negatives and began examining them, holding them to the light. "Here it is," she said.

Loren examined it carefully. "What a cluck I am," he said. "I might have solved the great murder mystery with my little camera!"

When Finn arrived a few minutes after Mark had telephoned, it was apparent to me that something had occurred since the morning to restore his self-confidence. The worried indecision which had characterized all his actions since he had arrived to hunt for Vail's murderer had gone. He looked ruddier, bigger, completely assured. His manner was jovial. I had a feeling that this was the genuine Finn—the big, hearty man pleased with himself and with the way life had treated him. He greeted us all in a loud voice and said to Mark with just a suspicion of condescension, "Well, Mr. Hillyer, what can I do for you? Want me to make you a deputy for that lucky hunt you had this morning?" He winked broadly at the rest of us.

Mark smiled gently. "No, don't shower me with honors, please," he said. "I merely wanted to show you this photograph of Lakeside Cottage, taken at 2:30 yesterday afternoon."

Here's a coat-dress you'll live in—for smartness, for warmth, in town or country. Designed along lines that will flatter almost any figure, it's perfect for one of the novelty woolsens so fashionable this season. The front buttons up to the trim little collar, and the semi-belted effect at the waist permits the sweeping line from shoulder to hem. Patch pockets are not only "in" this year, they are on practically every smart tailored frock.

Science Pushes the War On Infantile Paralysis

Two Scientists Bravely Test Value of New Vaccine as Preventive of Dreaded Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IT IS not unusual to read in the newspapers about outbreaks of infantile paralysis in different sections of the country. An epidemic along the Pacific coast aroused considerable uneasiness. At last accounts there appeared to be no marked increase in the number of cases. That situation was not particularly alarming because the cases reported seemed to be of the mild form.

As a rule cases of infantile paralysis, of "anterior poliomyelitis," as it is medically termed, begin to appear during June and July. As the summer progresses the number of cases increases until about September. When the cool weather sets in there is a gradual decline and by December few cases are reported. But at any season there will be some.

The disease is likely to attack children, but it also afflicts adults.

Cause Not Known

The actual cause of the disease is not known. Since the germ of infantile paralysis has never been determined, medical science has not yet been able to perfect a means of guarding against the infection. It is believed to be a "filterable virus," an agent so small it cannot be seen even with the aid of the most powerful microscope.

The fact that it is minute has been established. This is the fact because solutions believed to contain the germ are not purified by being passed through a very fine filter. This circumstance has given rise to the name "filterable virus."

Several scientists in New York have recently attempted to develop a vaccine which would give definite protection against the disease. The vaccine is obtained from the spinal cord of monkeys that have died from infantile paralysis. These brave scientists have injected themselves with the vaccine and hope to demonstrate its value as a preventive against this dreaded disease. The world anxiously awaits the outcome of their experiments.

Victims Should Be Isolated

As a preventive measure the injection of the blood of a person who has recovered from infantile paralysis has been of value. This is not always successful and besides it only bestows immunity or protection for a few weeks. Every parent in North America will be happy when the certain preventive and cure are found.

Since personal contact is the most likely means of spreading the disease, it is important that all victims of infantile paralysis be isolated in the early stages. Hospitalization is the ideal method of handling the patient, because it not only assures the sufferer of constant care and attention, but it is a means of protecting others. Convalescence is hastened and the spread of the disease is controlled.

already made two definite decisions:

First, and relating to enforcement, it has agreed to keep strict hands off all labor disputes, Johnson was continually thrusting himself into these controversies.

With the record of Johnson's labor failures before them, the board promptly relegated such dynamite-loaded matters to Secretary Perkins and the National Labor Relations Board.

The second decision, aimed at quickening the business-transaction pace of the NRA, has resulted in the creation of a new administrative agency. It is made up of two representatives from the Labor, Industrial, and Consumer Advisory Boards, will handle all "non-routine" questions such as exemptions from codes, renewals of codes.

Thus the Board hopes to end back-passing.

There is a lot more to do, but the new Board has made a real start.

F. S. Greensboro, N. C.—The most frequent speaker—and the loudest—in the House of Representatives is Texas' Tom Blanton. Some years ago he came within one vote of being expelled from his seat for inserting obscene language in the Congressional Record. Once, following an unsuccessful attempt to get elected to the Senate, Blanton won his way back to the House on a platform calling for cheaper Congressional funerals.

LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT IN JUST 4 WEEKS

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tons of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts a week is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

Prince Hurries to Aid Mrs. Vanderbilt Refute Charges Trying to Retain Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Speeding to the defense of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, who is fighting to regain custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Prince Gottfried Hohelohe was to arrive today on the Bremen.

At about the time that the ship bearing the prince is steaming into the harbor, witnesses for the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, will be taking the stand before Supreme Court Justice Carew in an effort to show that Mrs. Vanderbilt is not a fit guardian for her little heiress daughter.

Earlier in the hearing, a maid testified that she saw Prince Hohelohe, clad in pajamas, lying by the side of Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was weeping.

DENIED ALLEGATION

The prince denied indignantly that there had been any impropriety and immediately arranged for a quick trip to New York to testify in Mrs. Vanderbilt's behalf.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Vanderbilt's

twin sister, Lady Furness, and her brother, Harry Hays Morgan, have prepared to take the stand in opposition to their mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan.

Mrs. Morgan is backing Mrs. Whitney in the latter's fight to retain custody of the child. In doing so, Mrs. Morgan finds her four children lined up squarely against her. Lady Furness, in particular, has expressed "amazement" at her mother's actions.

Today's first witness in the habeas corpus proceedings will be Agnes Sattler, beauty parlor operator in the Hotel Chatham, who will testify in Mrs. Whitney's behalf.

The three Morgan daughters, Lady Furness, Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, will take the stand on Wednesday to fight Mrs. Whitney's action.

While the sensational case moves ahead, friends of Mrs. Vanderbilt, shocked at what they believe to be the unfairness of the charges against her, were rallying to her aid.

They pointed out that most of the witnesses against Mrs. Vanderbilt have been disgruntled ex-servants. One of the charges against her was that she lived with little Gloria Vanderbilt in a rat-infested "hovel" in Paris.

This "hovel," it turned out was a mansion on the Avenue Charles Floquet. Like most of the other older and grander buildings of Paris, it was not free from rats. Mrs. Vanderbilt's friends insist, but a strictly rat-free domicile could not have been obtained in all of Paris.

Another accusation—that Mrs. Vanderbilt was addicted to champagne—was likewise repudiated. Moderate use of this beverage, it was pointed out, was quite common in the circles in which Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Vanderbilt moved, and was never taken as a sign of moral culpability.

broadcasts which apparently have vanished into thin air.

Paralleling the "Jafsie" incident in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, an intermediary volunteered his services in the Stoll kidnapping case through an advertisement in a local newspaper.

The "ad" read:

"Record of years of contact with those charged with crime proves me worthy of implicit confidence and trust.

"Positive transaction can be successfully completed through me considerably minimizing danger. Plans thorough. Telephone day or night. Wabash 4467 R I A H."

H. A. I. Rosenberg, who inserted the advertisement, is a local attorney. He said that shortly after the notice was published he received three telephone calls which he declared were "interesting."

MONEY UNTOUCHED

The $50,000 asked by the kidnaper in the ransom note left behind was still unclaimed in the general delivery post office section of a city outside the state. It was reported members of the Stoll family were waiting for word to transfer the sum to another "pickup" site.

Although federal agents declined to express a definite theory as to whether the crime was committed by a professional "snatch" gang International News Service learned that operatives had been sent to Toledo, O., to check on the whereabouts of the remnants of the old "Purple Gang" of Detroit.

It was reported that former mobsters of the "Purple Gang" had transferred headquarters to the Ohio city which is only four or five hours ride in a fast auto from Louisville.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15—Authorities throughout northern Indiana patrolled highways today, on the watch for Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, 26-year-old Louisville society leader.

The alarm was spread following the report of a gasoline station attendant here that the kidnapped woman, her head swathed in bloody bandages, was in the rear seat of an automobile whose driver stopped at his station yesterday afternoon to inquire directions to Chicago.

MANY VICTIMS OF (Continued From Page One)

Isaly, deputy sheriffs reported, is a student at Miami University.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—A locomotive engineer at the wheel of an automobile on his day off, picnic bound, failed to stop, look and listen at a grade crossing. Five persons died. The dead: Fred Hochstadter, Blue Island railroad yardmaster; his wife, Helen; their children, Herbert and Jean and Mrs. Ethel Patno, wife of the engineer-chauffeur. Patno was critically injured. The crossing tender said the gates failed to work.

GALLIPOLIS, Oct. 15—Two men had been carried to their deaths today when an airplane plunged into the Ohio river.

Victims of the air tragedy were

William Burnell, 32, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., and William Graham, 28, of Ashland, Ky.

According to authorities, the two men had chartered the plane to take passengers aloft but they were flying alone when the accident occurred.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15—A glider had caused the death of its pilot today after it crashed at Crosley airport here from a height of 200 feet.

Joseph Swan, 30, of Middletown, who was guiding the motorless craft was fatally injured when he was caught in the splintered ship. He died several hours after the accident from a fractured skull and multiple body injuries.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—Greater Cleveland in the midst of its campaign to cut down automobile fatalities, today counted its highest

Sunday traffic toll in years—seven deaths in one day.

Two of the accidents happened in Cleveland, the others in suburban communities. The deaths in the city brought the toll for the year to 175, or 26 more than the death list for a corresponding period of 1933.

Watch for the Big Event of the Year!

Household Arts

BY Alice Brooks

Gloves Must be Gay This Fall to be Smart

PATTERN 5227

If you want to be at all in the swim this year, you must be as frivolous and gay as possible when it comes to gloves. Of course, this crocheted pair is gay but it's a most substantial and practical pair at the same time. The cuffs are, of course, the making of them—they're done in a simple pattern in a contrasting angora wool. If you prefer, you can use any other sort of wool, too, but angora has a furiness that is most alluring.

The glove itself is in a close stitch that, though warm, is still dainty and makes a dressy glove.

In pattern 5227 you will find detailed instructions for making the gloves in a large, medium and small size; illustrations of the gloves and all stitches used; and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Circleville Herald, 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

ADA SCHOOL PLANS REUNION ON OCT. 20

ADA, Oct. 15.—Plans for the entertainment of hundreds of "old grads" in the annual Homecoming trek here Saturday, October 20, were completed today at Ohio Northern university, and officials in charge predict the greatest attendance in the history of the institution.

Interest, of course, will center on the annual football contest—this year the foe is Capital university. Once again the "old grads" are inspired to return, this time in the firm belief that Ohio Northern will win, thereby breaking the cruel spell of a jinx that has ruined many a homecoming day for the Polar Bears.

DALEY ACTIVE IN TEACHERS MEETING

E. L. Daley, superintendent of city schools, will have a part in the Central Ohio Teachers association convention in Columbus, October 26 and 27. He has been appointed a teller, and is chairman of the committee on "geography."

MURDER-SUICIDE DAYTON VERDICT

DAYTON, Oct. 15.—Domestic trouble was blamed today for what police described as a murder-suicide tragedy in which Margaret Hennessy, 40, was shot and killed and her husband's body was found later hanging from a rope looped over a rafter in a garage at the rear of their home here.

The tragedy was discovered by the couple's 14-year-old son, Charles, who found his mother's body. Police who were called to investigate, located the body of the boy's father hanging in the garage.

TURLEY ON TRIAL IN MILLER DEATH

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—The death penalty was to be asked today of three judges sitting in the case of Marshall Turley, 55, accused of slaying Samuel Miller, night watchman in a clothing factory here.

Turley, who waived trial by jury, was first in Franklin-co. to use the new law which specifies that three judges may sit in place of a jury.

The death penalty request will be made by County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins.

Federal Agents Blame Politics for Alien Trial in New Jersey

WASHINGTON — Justice Department agents, who played the biggest part in apprehending the Lindbergh kidnaper, are definitely skeptical about the transfer of the case to New Jersey.

They attribute New Jersey eagerness to get the case chiefly to one thing—politics. A hot election fight is brewing in that state, and the Hauptmann trial for certain officials means publicity.

What Justice Department agents consider to be the same course is to go to trial first in New York on a charge of extortion. New York was where the ransom was paid. The case against Hauptmann on this charge, they believe, is perfect. On the murder and kidnapping charge, however, the case is still being worked up. Their strategy would be to get a conviction on extortion in New York, then move the case to Jersey for the murder charge. This way there would be no slip-up.

Discretion

Navy Secretary Swanson loves a political fight, in fact he is a real fire-eater when it comes to battling for naval appropriations. But he is not a politician. He is a man of discretion. He is a man of discretion.

So the other day when he had to decide between two conflicting allegiances at a football game, he ducked! It was on the occasion of the colorful Navy-Virginia classic, played in Griffith Stadium before a large crowd. Swanson was invited to be the guest of honor. The entire Navy Academy corps attended and the student body from the University of Virginia.

But the grizzled Swanson, after long deliberation, turned down the invitation. An Admiral, surprised asked him about it. "Well, it's this way," replied Swanson, with a twist of his long and fierce mustaches. "I love football games and I'd love this one particularly. But I'm afraid to take a chance. You see, I'm an alumnus of the University of Virginia. That's one side. Also I'm Secretary of the Navy. That's the other side. And, he said with a grin, "I'm old enough to know when I'm putting myself on the spot. I'll stay home and read, thanks."

Plenty to Do

The board that took over General Hugh Johnson's job has found plenty to do. In the two weeks it has been functioning it has sat in continuous session, from early morning until late afternoon.

So far relations among the seven members have been harmonious, although tinged by several warm debates.

Whether this state of amity is a real peace, or merely an armed truce, remains to be seen. The group as yet has not tackled a serious controversial issue, such as wages, hours, price-fixing.

Its attention to date has been concentrated on dealing with three urgent administrative problems, which it discovered would have to be solved promptly and decisively if the NRA was to be saved from complete demoralization:

1. Strengthening of subordinate executive personnel. In the search for good men, the board is canvassing the record of every ex-NRA executive, with the hope of getting the best to return.

2. Quicker transaction of business. This was one of the most serious weaknesses of the Johnson regime. Controversial questions were buck-passed from administrator to administrator, some of them hanging fire for months.

3. Strengthening and tightening of enforcement. To this end the board is studying the operation of various enforcement methods, features of codes which have proved most enforceable, and those which have caused greatest trouble.

Hands Off Labor

In grappling with these administrative problems the board has

HAUPTMANN'S EXTRADITION FIGHT STARTS

SUSPECT LOOKS WANE

New Jersey Not to Call Lindbergh to Stand

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was the central figure today at the Habeas Corpus hearing at which he is fighting efforts of the New Jersey authorities to extradite him to that state for trial on the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby.

The courtroom was jammed to capacity long before the proceedings began. When the doors of the courtroom were opened there was a rush of newspaper men for seats. More than 100 reporters crowded into the courtroom, elbowing into seats at tables just back of the lawyers' railing.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey indicated that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh would not be a witness.

"We do not anticipate needing him or calling him," said Wilentz.

FOLEY MAY HELP
District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx said he would sit in at the hearing and assist the New Jersey authorities in every way possible.

At 11:10 a. m. most of the lawyers trooped in.

Wilentz, Foley and Defense Counsel James M. Fawcett stepped up to the bench and held a whispered consultation with Judge Hammer.

The Hauptmann hearing was then called to order.

Hauptmann, meantime, was taken from the Bronx-co jail, placed in a prison van and brought to the courthouse under guard of three deputy sheriffs.

Several hundred spectators massed around the jail as Hauptmann was led out to the van.

Hauptmann was pale, his cheeks sunken and his facial expression grim. He wore a blue and white handkerchief in his breast pocket.

Defense Attorney Fawcett offered to the court the original writ of habeas corpus showing its service on the sheriff. It was received in evidence.

Attorney General Wilentz of New Jersey offered in evidence the warrant of extradition. It, too, was accepted.

7 HUNTED IN LAKE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—Two coast guard boats put out from the Cleveland coast guard station today to search for a party of seven aboard a small speed boat, more than 12 hours overdue on a pleasure trip in Lake Erie.

Fearful that the party may have suffered some mishap, parents of the passengers appealed to the coast guards today to search for the boat. The boat left Rocky River, a suburb, yesterday afternoon and failed to return on scheduled time. 9 o'clock last night, the coast guards were told.

950 HUNGARIANS NEAR DEATH IN SHAFT

PEGS, Hungary, Oct. 15.—Joining in the dramatic challenge hurled from 1,000 feet below the earth by 950 of their fellow-workers, 1,200 Christian Socialist miners led by a priest today proclaimed their participation in a hunger strike designed to force increase in a starvation wage.

A short while after the leaders of the striking miners sent a message from their underground tomb reading: "Buy 950 coffins; we are prepared to die," the Christian Socialist supporters appeared at the mine entrance and demanded admission to the shaft. They were refused.

SCREW DRIVER 'GANG' HUNTED

SCHOOL RANSACKED

Tool Used To Pry Open Windows of Two Houses.

Police today were seeking a gang of "screw driver" thieves who broke into two residences and a school building during the past week-end. Entrance to at least two of the places was gained by prying windows open with a screw driver.

Clues are being investigated with the possibility that an early arrest may be made.

The residence of Ed Blum, 374 Watt-st., was entered between 7 and 8 p. m. Sunday with a rear window being pried open with a screw driver. Mr. Blum reported about $15 stolen and the house ransacked. The thieves left by a door.

At 3:30 a. m. Sunday a window at the residence of E. C. Ebert, 121 N. Washington-st., was pried open and raised but Edward Ebert, Jr., asleep in the room, was awakened by cold air striking his face. He turned on the lights and saw a man standing outside the window. He called to his parents in an upstairs room and the man fled. Whether he had any aides was not learned.

The screw driver was left behind by the thief.

The High-st. school building, in the same vicinity as the Blum and Ebert residences, was broken into over the week-end with a glass being broken to gain entrance. Police believe the screw driver used in the Blum and Ebert breaking jobs was stolen there.

No loot was obtained at the school.

The penalty for entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season is punishable by 20 years to life in the penitentiary if the culprits are captured.

Officers Smith and Shasteen investigated the Blum robbery while Officer McGrady was working on the school house job Monday.

POINCARÉ IS DEAD

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Raymond Poincaré, France's war-time president and thrice premier, died at his Paris residence at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

He had come to his home in the Rue Marbeau from his country estate only a fortnight ago.

HOSPITAL NEWS

William Heeter, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heeter, Elm-ave, was taken to his home Monday, from Berkey hospital, where he underwent an operation.

That grim message came literally from the grave today as nearly a thousand miners, bent on mass suicide because life on $2 a week was not worth living, grew weaker for want of air, water, and food in their self-imposed living tomb a thousand feet down a pitch-dark shaft.

While their women-folk outside fought guards around the pit-head barring them from joining and dying with the miners, there was no sign that the mine operators would capitulate and give the men the $1.50 a week wage increase they demand.

FRESH AIR GONE
Entombed for four days, the miners were believed today to have only a few hours more to live. They are understood to have finally carried out their threat to turn off the ventilating machinery and shut off the water supply. Without fresh air they could not last the day, it is believed.

Five trade union officials, sent by Premier Julius Gombos to negotiate with the miners, face death with them, for the strikers held the emissaries as hostages.

The minister of the interior was rushed to the mine in an attempt to free the five prisoners.

The miners are dying in protest against the part-time system which the owners say was forced by economic conditions. The men demanded enough work so that they could earn $3.50 a week. The Danube Steam Navigation co., however, said that it even now has

DR. JONES REMAINS IN WHO'S WHO LIST

Dr. Howard Jones, author and physician, retains his place in the new "Who's Who in America," the new edition recently received at the Public Library discloses.

Dr. Jones has been in the book in recent years. His father, the late Dr. Nelson Jones, was also listed in "Who's Who."

MAN ADMITS KILLING GIRL

Child, 5, Found Burned In Furnace; Mount Vernon, N. Y. Scene of Crime.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—A 24-year-old relief worker, Lawrence Stone, signed a confession in police headquarters here early today that he murdered Nancy Kean Costigan, 5-year-old, in the basement of the fashionable Park-Hutchinson apartments and cremated her body in the oil furnace of the building to destroy all traces of his crime.

Stone's confession, according to Chief Inspector Michael I. Silverstein of the Mount Vernon police, solves one of the most brutal and fiendish crimes in police annals.

The confession was signed shortly before 4 a. m. today after Stone had been grilled continuously since his arrest soon after the gruesome discovery of the little girl's charred bones in the furnace of the apartment late yesterday.

A murder charge was formally lodged against Stone prior to the signing of the confession. According to police this was based primarily on the finding of blood-stains.

POLITICS NEAR "FEVER PITCH"

Influx of Important Speakers Unsurpassed in Recent Years, Is Belief.

G. O. P. SEEKS BRICKER

Davey May End Pre-election Speeches of Democrats.

Pickaway-co folks who like to read and talk politics have had plenty of opportunity to enjoy both in this fast-approaching election.

Almost every week for the past month has been speakers of either state or national note on the platform either within the county or near enough for many local persons to attend the meetings.

Foremost among the speakers who have visited this county are Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; A. Vic Donahey, C. C. Dill, Mel G. Underwood, George S. Myers, Dean Throckmorton, all on the Democratic side. The Republicans have had to go out of the city to hear most of their speakers with Simeon D. Ross, Clarence Brown, Paul Herbert, Renick Dunlap and others appearing in Kingston. Dunlap spoke here Saturday afternoon, a gathering of women hearing his address.

Wallace's talk wasn't political but served to "help things along."

AFTER BRICKER
The Republican executive committee is angling for the services of John W. Bricker, attorney general, for a speech sometime prior to the election but as yet nothing definite has been reported. The Democrats, who map definite plans for their campaign tomorrow evening, are bringing Martin L. Davey here next Tuesday evening for an open air meeting if the weather is suitable.

The election is only three weeks away tomorrow on Nov. 6 and many of the candidates on the county ticket are in the midst of active campaigning. Their efforts, however, have been overshadowed by the influx of state speakers.

One of the most interesting fights is that between Congressman Mel G. Underwood and Renick Dunlap, of Kingston. The word "fight" is the proper one because that is what it has developed into. Underwood received one of the finest boosts in his campaign last week when Vic Donahey and Senator Dill urged the voters to support him.

Killer Watched As Death Nears

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—Dropping his cloak of sullenness that hitherto had marked his stay in "death row," Harry Pierpont, condemned Dillinger gangster, became wildly rebellious over his impending electrocution today.

Guards in death row reported to Warden P. E. Thomas that Pierpont had started to rave and rant against society which decreed that he must die for the murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber at Lima last October 12.

"He's cussing like a drunken sailor," were the direct quotations from Warden Thomas.

"DIE AS BELIEVED"
According to Thomas, the condemned hoodlum told his parents that he did not wish to see a priest because "I want to die as I lived."

Pierpont, according to the warden, appears dejected, refusing to read magazines sent back to him in death row. He continually sits with his head in his hands and his claws on his knees, Thomas declared.

According to the warden, all guards at the big state prison have been ordered to maintain the strictest watch over both row and the walls of the prison.

Suspicious cars with out-of-state license seen in the vicinity of the penitentiary were being checked by local police to prevent Pierpont from receiving any outside aid in any possible attempt of escape.

At the same time, Warden Thomas ordered the guards against a relaxation of vigilance after Pierpont was executed. He pointed out that other prisoners may attempt to liberate the special subject before he is sent to the gallows.

5 DAY PERIOD CLOSING TODAY; TRY 'AD' PLAN

Negotiation Promised Before End of Day in Original Kidnap Note

MONEY IN P. O. BOX

Milk-Man's Clue, Blood on Pier Discounted

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—The "zero hour" approaches today in the brutal kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Stoll.

The time limit in which the abductor promised to communicate with Berry V. Stoll, husband of the 26-year-old victim, expires at 4:20 p. m.

When Mrs. Stoll, ill and running a high temperature, was gashed over the head and dragged from her home last Wednesday, the kidnaper left a ransom note which read in part:

"We will communicate with you within five days."

NO MESSAGE YET
The fifth day dawned without any known message being received from the kidnaper or the kidnapers. Authorities declined to go on record as to whether they believed the young society woman was dead or alive.

An optimistic note was sounded inferentially when Harold Nathan, department of justice agent in charge of the investigation, said:

"When Mrs. Stoll is returned we hope to be able to give out more information."

Although the gates were kept ajar, figuratively speaking, on the Stoll estate in the hope that the victim might be returned, there was a noticeable increase in activity by police authorities.

A number of persons were questioned. Federal Agent Nathan admitted.

Searching parties continued to comb the area.

A police squad car was on duty for the first time within calling distance of the Stoll household.

Among those questioned were James E. Seales, milk-wagon driver, who told of colliding with a sedan early on Sunday morning. Seales said the driver drew a revolver and threatened him. He said he believed Mrs. Stoll was in the rear seat of the sedan.

NOT IMPORTANT
Federal Agent Nathan said that the incident was of no importance. "I believe Seales was honestly mistaken," he said.

Another "lead" discounted after a check up was the report of three youths that they had found blood on the pier leading to an abandoned bathhouse.

Before the time limit set by the kidnaper expires, the husband of Mrs. Stoll was expected to issue another radio appeal to her captor. He has made two previous appeals.

TRANS-PACIFIC AIR MAIL IS PLANNED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—The first Trans-Pacific air mail flight on a proposed route to China is to be made within the next few weeks by the Pan American Airways, it was indicated here today.

According to J. T. Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, the ships will leave the Los Angeles office from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Honolulu, Hawaii, Midway Island, Lake Island, Guam, and thence to the Philippines and China.

A new type of seaplane, called the "Brazilian Clipper," will be used in the service. The plane is capable of carrying 2,000 pounds of mail and express and has accommodations for 32 passengers and a crew of six.

The post office department is ready to ask congress for the necessary appropriations for outfitting its support through mail contracts, Trippe indicated.

Athens Banker Dies

Funeral services were held in Athens Monday afternoon for James D. Brown, 69, banker on that city for 40 years, who died Saturday at the home of a daughter in Cincinnati.

Mr. Brown married Mrs. A. D. Hawks, of this city, in 1929. She died in 1916.

Big Ten Results Cause Surprise to Grid Fans

By International News Service
Big Ten football fans blinked their eyes in bewilderment today when they surveyed the results of Saturday's gridiron clashes.

This was what they saw:
Chicago 27, Michigan 0.
Illinois 14, Ohio State 13.
Indiana 6, Temple 6.

Wisconsin 28, South Dakota 7.
Stanford 20, Northwestern 0.
Notre Dame 18, Purdue 7.
Nebraska 14, Iowa 13.

Chicago's defeat of Michigan caused the greatest surprise but because of what sport writers call "local interest" Illinois' victory over Ohio resulted in the greatest comment here in the state.

LOST TWO GOALS
The Illini simply swept the dust off their feet. That and the fact that Ohio didn't get two touchdowns that it might have had when it was within the shadows of its opponents' goal was responsible for the loss.

Chicago's defeat of Michigan simply emphasized the promise that this, 1934, threatens to be the craziest of all football seasons. Ohio meets Chicago early in November.

Purdue's loss to Notre Dame also caused some surprise but the boiler-makers were without their star back, Purvis, for chapters of the game.

However, the defeats and wins

were marked up forever in the record books. It appeared that Michigan has been deposed as Big Ten champion and now the only question left to decide was who shall be the next king of the western conference.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15 — With hopes blasted for an undefeated season and chances for a Big Ten Championship seriously undermined, Ohio State gridgers today returned to the practice field to pick up the remnants of a promising career that faded Saturday when Illinois beat the Scarlet and Gray 14 to 13.

Emerging from the bruising conflict with the Illini with no more than the usual crop of minor bumps, the Buckeyes today appeared ready and eager to go back to work and regain some of the prestige lost by a costly misplay on the Illinois goal line when someone missed a signal and a perfect pass from center went bounding away, and with it the chances for a touchdown that might have kept State's record clean.

But the Big Buckeye squad, appearing to have forgotten the Illinois game, today centered all their attention on preparations for the resumption of football relations with Andy Kerr's Red Raiders from Colgate, due here next Saturday.

About This And That

DELAWARE COMES HERE

Circleville football fans will be given an opportunity next Friday to see the Tigers in action against a Central Buckeye league foe, Delaware. The Tigers have yet to defeat a Delaware football team but are hoping to make a good showing Friday. The team looked somewhat rejuvenated last week although Grandview won, 20-0. The showing of Otto Mader and Normie Coleman was pleasing to Coach Pete Herberholz.

WHAT OF MICHIGAN

The downfall of the University of Michigan was enough to make prognosticators loop the loop. It is doubtful if two sports writers in the country picked Chicago's down trodden team to beat the Wolverines. Jay Berwanger marked himself as one of the best in the business. State's defeat was a bitter pill to swallow but for once Columbus sports writers do not seem to be blaming the coach for the loss. Experience is the factor cited and it seems this is a logical reason. It is a safe bet that Buzz Wetzel will see plenty of action from now on. It's Colgate here this week.

WESLEYAN IN SPIRIT

If Ohio Wesleyan's offense can perform every week like it did Saturday against Marshall with Howard White as acting captain, we suggest that Whitey get that job all the time. Turkey was the star of the game, however, scoring a touchdown, tossing passes for two more, kicking three goals after touchdown and booting a perfect field goal. He played less than half the time.

SMITH IS WINNER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—Steady uphill fighting abetted by two spectacular sub-par rounds had clinched for Horton Smith today the championship of the first Louisville open golf tournament.

The 26-year-old ex-caddy who pros at Oak Park, Ill., captured the meet yesterday with a 72-hole total of 285.

This was 3 under the card of Craig Wood, who had 289 for second place. Tommy Armour finished third with 290.

Smith was thirteen at the end of the first day's play but the second and third rounds found him blazing through in 70 each two under par. With a 3-hole lead going into the last eighteen he coasted to victory, duplicating his 73 of last Friday.

950 HUNGARIANS

15,000 carloads of coal on its hands that it cannot sell, so it would be a dead loss to mine any more coal.

FAMILIES DEFILED
Fixed bayonets and machine guns barred the way of the thousands of screaming, weeping women and girls who fought to go into the mine and die with their men. Troops formed a ring of steel around the entire mine area. The whole poverty-stricken district was in a state of hysterical desperation as reports from the shaft-head showed that the air was getting more and more foul minute by minute and those outside knew that death would not be long in coming to their 950 stubborn loved ones.

A last-minute effort by Premier Gemboes himself to save the miners brought only a repetition of the order to "get a lot of coffee. We will die before we give up." Gemboes had sent a message to the men telling them that he would personally intervene in their behalf if they would come to the surface.

Here's Touchdown That Began Rout of Trojans

Southern California masses its defense to stop Izzy Weinstein, Pittsburgh fullback, in his plunge for the goal line, but Izzy makes it—and starts the Trojans on their way to a 20-0 defeat before a large crowd in Pittsburgh's huge stadium. Weinstein later scored another touchdown.

LEADERSKEEP SLATES CLEAN IN PRO' LOOP

Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions Only Unbeaten Teams in National League.

By International News Service

Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions continued undefeated in the professional football league today after a hectic week-end. The Bears drubbed the Cardinals 20 to 0 while the Lions were winning from Philadelphia in the east, 16-0.

Other scores of Sunday games were:

New York, 14; Brooklyn, 9; Green Bay, 41; Cincinnati, 20; Boston, 39; Pittsburgh, 0. Ronzani and Feathers' crossed the Cardinal goal while Jack Manders added the extra points and scored six more points by placements. Twelve thousand were in the stands.

The Lions, transplanted from Portsmouth, have yet to be scored upon but were forced to try harder than usual to score on the Philadelphia Eagles. Caddell ran 22 yards for the first touchdown, Clark adding the point, then contributing a dropkick for the other three.

Kenny Strong starred for the Giants as they beat Shipwreck Kelly's Dodgers. Strong crossed the goal line for both touchdowns and added one of the points, Michigan Harry Newman getting the other.

Cliff Battles, of Kentucky fame, ran wild for Eastern with Pittsburgh being unable to stop him.

Hank Bruder, Northwestern's hard luck boy, became fair-haired Sunday to ramble unimpeded through the Cincinnati Reds. Greer Bay having an easy time. Bruder scored three touchdowns and added four points to the score.

A last-minute effort by Premier Gemboes himself to save the miners brought only a repetition of the order to "get a lot of coffee. We will die before we give up."

Gemboes had sent a message to the men telling them that he would personally intervene in their behalf if they would come to the surface.

FAREWELL PARTY

The members of the congregation of the Lutheran church held a farewell party in the form of a chicken supper for Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Glick, son David and daughter Gretchen. About 150 members of the church and Sunday school and neighbors and friends were present. Mr. C. A. Higley acted as toastmaster for the affair, calling on several members of the Council and Sunday school for comments. Mr. Stewart Logsdon spoke in behalf of the choir. Mrs. W. A. Bowers, president of the la-ties aid, presented Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Glick an occasional chair. Miss Gretchen Glick a little red chair, and David Glick two books. Rev. Glick also received a personal gift from Mrs. Emma Wright. The Brotherhood at their monthly meeting Wednesday night presented Rev. Glick ten dollars. Rev. Glick in his response, sketched the past eleven years, and expressed gratitude and friendship showed him by the congregation. Everyone joined in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and Rev. Glick dismissed the meeting with a short prayer.

The District rally of the W. M. A. will be held at the Ashville U. B. church on Thursday, October 18. There will be two sessions, afternoon and evening, with a pot luck dinner at six o'clock. The programs will be inspiring as well as educational. All are invited.

William Lane will not be able to enter law school this fall as he had planned, since he is still a patient at U. S. Marine hospital at Ellis Island, New York, where he is slowly recovering from an attack of pleurisy, contracted in August while on board a trans-Atlantic liner.

W. A. Bowers who was injured in an automobile accident last Friday, suffered a back-set Friday morning.

Gordon Dunkle is assuming his duties at the Kroger store. Howard B. Cupp, the Main-st barber, has discontinued house-keeping and has taken rooms with Mrs. Amy Harris, on Cromley-st.

Ashville was well represented at the Circleville Pumpkin show last week.

Mrs. Julia Weaver was the guest of relatives in Columbus, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Griffith entertained the following guests at their home on Long-st, Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Griffith, Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Fay Johnson and Albert, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffith, Lancaster, and Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith and son John of Circleville.

Mrs. Ola Forquer entertained her daughter, Mrs. Paul Ford and daughter Joan, of Cool Grove, this week.

Mrs. Edna Neece and sons, Lowell and Paul, visited with Circleville relatives over the week-end. Mrs. Cora Brinker spent last Sunday in Columbus the guest of her sisters, Mrs. H. A. Niles and Miss Knepper.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baum entertained J. B. Outram and family of Urbana, Saturday.

Lawrence Peters and family spent Sunday in Columbus, the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parks.

The following members of Troop 84, the local Boy Scouts, have received appointments for service at Ohio State football games this year: Jasper Hedges, Richard Hedges, Hewitt Cromley, Chester Reckey, William Bowers and Ralph Stansel.

William Larue, a local boy graduate of the Ashville high school and grandson of Mrs. Ollie Hoover of Long-st, is a patient at the U. S. Marine hospital at Ellis Island, N. Y., where he is recovering from an attack of pleurisy.

on the clothing of the suspect, who was formerly a doorman at the apartment house, and the fact that he had been seen talking to the child a few minutes before she disappeared.

Inspector Silverstein told reporters he believed the girl, who was paying a week-end visit to her aunt, who lives in the apartment house, was brutally assaulted in the cellar of the building, beaten over the head and then thrown, probably alive, into the roaring oil furnace.

Illinois Repulses Ohio State, 14-13

A badly beaten Ohio State football team came to life a just a trifle too late and after a nervous rally that had 25,000 homecomers cheered, fell just a trifle short to lose a 14-13 verdict to Illinois at Memorial Stadium at Champaign, Ill. In the above photo, Jack Fischer of Illinois (arrow) after taking the ball stepped into action only to be brought down by some of the Buckeyes in this wild thrilling game.

The home must remain where it stands. Perhaps it's bored with "the same four walls". Cheer it up. Here's how: A bright cushion or two will make the easy chair "easier". Colorful scarfs take away the reproachful look some pieces of furniture assume. Woman's workshop—the kitchen—is cheered by amusing towels and saucy curtains. A patchwork quilt on bed, cot, or divan, invites repose and comfort.

All this is so simple to do by the use of Alice Brooks easy-to-make patterns. What materials to use: harmonious color combinations, and the quickest and most economical way of making are suggested in each pattern.

THEY ALL NEED ENERGY "GET A LIFT WITH CAMEL"

BUSINESS WOMAN, Miss Eve Miller says: "Camels give me a 'lift' when my energy is low."

SCIENTIST, Russell F. Mann says: "I like the mild flavor of Camels better and better!"

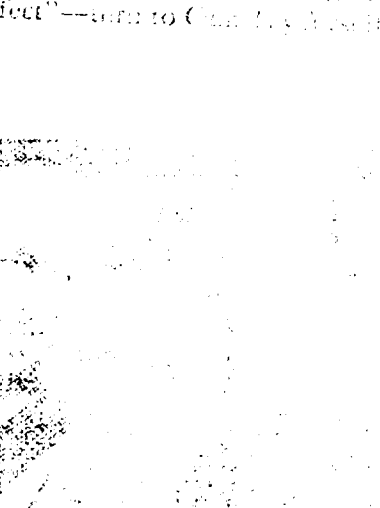

PHARMACIST, W. A. Seaman says: "Nerves don't trouble me—and I don't ever want them to, either. I smoke a great deal in my line of work, and I stick to Camels. They never interfere with healthy nerves and just suit my taste."

FARMER, I. A. Bailey says: "I smoke a Camel, and my energy is quickly renewed."

CIRCUS AERIALIST, Antoinette Concello: "I smoke Camels. They never upset my nerves."

SPORTSWOMAN PILOT, Mrs. Cecil Kenton says: "I make it a rule to smoke Camels. They are the mildest cigarette I know. After a strenuous, tiring flight, when I feel worn out, a Camel quickly restores my energy."

CHAMPION GOLFER, Tommy Armstrong, "Wizard of the Irons," says: "What do I think of Camels? They are my brand and have been for years. I must be sure that my nerves are healthy—that's why I prefer Camels."

Artificial Radium

THE value of radium in the treatment of disease gives world-wide importance to the announcement in London that artificial creation of radioactive elements for practical use is a possibility of the near future.

The announcement did not come from some previously obscure scientist but from a source that probably is regarded as the highest authority on radium. It was made by Mme. Irene Curie Joliot and her husband, Jean Frederic Joliot. Mme. Joliot is a daughter of the discoverer of radium.

She, like her mother and assisted by her husband, has made a deep study of radium and already has to her credit important discoveries in this field. For some time she and her husband have been trying to produce artificial radioactive elements. Working with ordinary stable substances such as boron, aluminum and magnesium, which are plentifully available in nature, they have succeeded in producing what they call "radionitrogen," a substance that has many of the properties of radium.

The fact that their experiments to date have yielded results that caused them to express the belief that success would finally crown their efforts must be taken as highly encouraging. The Jolits went far as to express the view that artificially created radioactive elements even superior to the natural radium "in medicine and in other practical fields" was a possibility.

The costliness of radium has restricted the use of this element as well as experiments with it. Finding of a comparatively cheap substitute of similar properties would open the way to a much greater use of it as a curative agent as well as make possible more exhaustive research work.

Mussolini must be aging. A dictator has been killed and he hasn't mobilized the army to "insure peace."

Tom, Dick and Harriet

IN a pertinent and striking paraphrase of a familiar saying a Washington correspondent
 the other day, wrote:

"Later they got it (stock) listed on the stock exchange, and sales were made to any Tom, Dick or Harriet."

The correspondent has dropped Harry from the triumvirate so familiarly the symbol of the non-exclusive and substituted Harriet, thus giving women representation as befits their greatly enlarged place in all human activities, even on the speculative market. There ought to be other adaptations of the same kind and for the same reason. We suggest that John Doe and Richard Roe be superseded by John Doe and Rachel Roe. In justice to women's place in public affairs Uncle Sam should be coupled or alternated with Aunt Mary.

The victor at least should share the spoils. Of course, if spoils and honors are to be shared under the new feminine freedom, so must the responsibilities. The goddess of liberty was created feminine when women had little to do with the liberties or the oppressions of the human race. Now the figure becomes more consistent, but one of these days man, maddened by inglorious relegation, will insist that the torch is too heavy for feminine hands alone.

Jean Harlow, says Jean, attracts friendships, not romance. And Primo Carnera says one editor, is a jockey.

Scientists have discovered that herds of wild animals died 25 millions years ago of drouth. Oh well . . .

If you aren't a striking laborer or a stubborn capitalist, you are probably a portion of the mere public that pays the bill.

DEATH SONG

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unpopular patient at the Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon, and the other, from a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillier, playwright and patient, agree the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors.
 Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph.
 Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You," sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Wilbur Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Felipa, the nurse, Loren and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, Mark's nurse.
 Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing.
 Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, disappears. Clendening claims he saw a piece of paper under the clock on Felipa's table, but no trace can be found of it. Mark's theory is that Dr.
 Calvert having gone there alone, may have found the note but denied seeing it. Loren Ruxton claims he was out with Sue at the time of the tragedy and took a snapshot of Lakeside Cottage a little after two o'clock, yet Sue had not left the hospital until five minutes to three. Mark fears Felipa was also murdered and suggests that Finn drag the lake. A pair of hedge shears, wrapped in overalls and believed to be the murder weapon, are found in the water. The gardeners are questioned, but Mark believes it was someone else disguised in overalls.
 Loren and Sue bring a "Waiting For You" record to Mark with the news that the music store sent another copy to Clendening that day.

CHAPTER XVIII

Mark chuckled as he took the record from its envelope. He read the label on it and then said, "Did you get the catalogue?"

Loren produced it from his pocket and Mark thumbed through it. He turned to the page and read it. His lips pursed.

"I'm a sap," he said. "I should have had you get me another of Vail's records."

"Never mind, you scoffer," he said. "You don't believe in me, so why should I let you in on my secret? Drag the phonograph over, will you?"

"I carried his portable phonograph from the desk and put it on his bedside table."

"I'm afraid you've wasted your money, Mark, unless you miss the sound of Vail's voice," Loren said.
 "It must be one of the gardeners."

"Says you. If it's a gardener, that record still isn't explained."

Mark put the disc on the phonograph and released the lever. Once again the song that now seemed to symbolize Vail's death rang through the sanatorium grounds.

It was uncanny and disquieting, listening to Vail's voice again. If it had not been certain that Mark had some definite purpose in playing it, it would have protested. As it was,
 it sat quietly, feeling very incomfortable and embarrassed, as though it were a party to a breach of manners. Mark listened intently to the song, and when it was ended, he nodded in a satisfied manner, but he offered no explanation.
 "I thought I'd never have to listen to that again," Loren said.

AT THE GRAND

Janet Gaynor's and Charles Farrell's starring vehicle "Change of Heart," opened at the Grand Theatre on Sunday.

Adapted from Kathleen Norris' recent best-seller, "Machatan Love Song," "Change of Heart" has a brilliant supporting cast headed by James Dunn, Gene Rogers, Beryl Mercer, Shirley Temple, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Druce Leyton, Irene Franklin and Barbara Barondess. John Blystone is directing.

AT THE CLIFFTONA

"The tone of the voice is just as important to feminine charm as the shape of the body . . ."

This statement was made recently by Grace Moore, star of Columbia's sensational musical "One Night of Love," showing tonight at the Clifftona Theatre, in a plea for the improvement of tone and diction in women of today.

"Everyone," she said, "has a key of living and speaking. The key of speaking should be the reflection of personality and mode of living."

"However, it is seldom that a woman will devote any time or thought to perfection of her voice.
 This is regrettable, because extreme, for inculcable illusions have been shattered when the idol has spoken."

HORSE SHORTAGE

EFFINGHAM, Ill. — Surpluses may exist in everything else, but Effingham county faces a shortage of horses. During the last 15 years, the number of horses and mules in the county has dwindled steadily, so that now there are not sufficient breeding mares to meet the future needs of the farmers.

"Please don't play it every day, as Vail did."

"Once is enough, I think," Mark answered. "Sorry to raise the dead like that."

We all sat silent. That song seemed to have deprived us all of the ability to make consequential conversation. Into that uncomfortable restraint came James Rux-ton. He looked pale and ill and he seemed to be struggling to suppress some agitation and indignation.

"Good afternoon," he said. He looked at the phonograph and then at Mark, his thin lips tightened.
 "Surely you weren't playing—"

He paused and Mark finished his sentence. "Waiting For You?"
 "Yes, yes, I was. I hope it didn't annoy you."

"Really, Mr. Hillier!" he said, "I realize that a guest is hardly privileged to question your actions, but I don't think it's quite the proper thing to do, under the circumstances."

"Uncle Jim—" Loren began, but Mark interrupted:

"I was merely trying to confirm a theory," he said. "My experiment's finished and I don't think I'll find it necessary to repeat it."

James Ruxton took an immaculate handkerchief from his breast pocket and wiped his lips. "Thank you," he said. "You can understand what unpleasant associations that record has for me."

"I'm afraid you're going to hear it again, Uncle Jim," Loren said.
 "Clendening sent to the village for the same record today."

But James Ruxton's thin body stiffened. His eyebrows drew together and his eyes became hard and angry. "I believe I can attend to that," he said.

Thinly, from down the hall another phonograph began to play the same song. It seemed like a gesture of defiance from Clendening, coming at that moment, but I realized that the record had just been delivered to him and that undoubtedly he was trying it on his machine immediately. In a moment even James Ruxton saw the sardonic humor of it and he smiled, grudgingly.

Hastily, to distract him, Sue said,
 "Do you want to see the photograph Loren took yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ruxton?" She laughed merrily. "He's the world's worst photographer, I believe. You see what he did to me."

"If he couldn't take good pictures of you, sweetheart," Mark said, "he may as well throw away his camera."

"That's nothing to what I did to Uncle Jim," Loren said. "I spoiled a whole roll of film of him and the cottage day before the dance."

Sue opened her bag and, walking to the bed, handed some of the prints to Mark and some to James Ruxton. Loren and I walked over and stood behind them.

There were several pictures of Sue, all but one out of focus and that one under-exposed. We passed them from hand to hand, laughing, and Loren good-naturedly joined in our amusement.

"It's the modern technique," he said. "If James Joyce and Gertrude Stein can write things that don't make sense, why can't I take photographs that don't make sense?"

"You have grounds for a damage suit," I said to Sue.

"These of Loren are good," his uncle said to Sue. "I suppose you took them, Sue."

"Yes," she said. "Isn't he handsome?"

"Here's one of Lakeside Cottage," Mark said. "Hello, who's this?" Loren?

He passed the print to me. The picture was a bad one. It had been over-exposed, and the cottage tilted at a slight angle. But beside it, visible below the branches of a tree in the foreground, I could see the body of a man facing the house.

"Good Lord!" I cried. "He's standing right beside Vail's door!"

"Let me see!" James Ruxton exclaimed. He pushed close to me and took the photograph in trembling fingers. "Why, so he is! It's a gardener. See, he's wearing overalls! He turned to Loren, his eyes gleaming excitedly. "What time did you take this, Loren?"

"About two-thirty," he said. "Let me see!"

He studied the photograph for a minute, with Sue looking over his shoulder. Then he turned to Mark.

"Remember when you asked me this morning if I'd noticed anything unusual around the cottage yesterday afternoon?" he asked. "I said I hadn't, but I wasn't quite sure. I had an idea in the back of my mind that I had seen somebody. I must have remembered seeing the gardener when I snapped that picture, but you got so used to seeing people like that that you don't really notice them."

Mark nodded. "That's perfectly true. They become a part of the scenery after a while. Let me see it again."

He took back the photograph and studied it. "And you took this at two-thirty?"

Loren nodded. "About then," he said. Suddenly a look of alarm flashed over his face. I could understand it. In his excitement he had forgotten the lie he had told Mark that morning. Now he recalled it.

He said lamely, "You asked me about this morning, and I said I took the picture a little after two.
 When Sue reminded me that she didn't meet me until three, I realized it must have been considerably later. Mark, do you think that's the— the person who killed Vail?"

"It's impossible," Mark said. "A thing like that couldn't happen.
 But I don't see how it can be anyone else." Suddenly he laughed.
 "By Jove, imagine it! A picture of the murderer, and it might be anybody in the sanatorium! The tree there cuts off the head, and the body might be anyone's." He laughed again. "What a joke on Finn!"

"It seems unfortunate to me, rather than amusing," James Rux-ton said. "Let me see it again. Perhaps it would be possible to identify the man."

But when he had examined it more closely, he shook his head.
 "No, I'm afraid you're right, Mr.
 Hillier." He seemed disappointed.
 His face sagged in tired lines.

"What a misfortune!" he said.

"Oh, Loren, Sue, if only you were a better photographer, you might have solved this awful thing!"

Mark picked up the telephone.
 "Tell Mr. Finn that I want to see him as soon as he can come," he told the operator. "I've got something of the utmost importance for him."

He replaced the receiver and said to Loren, "Have you the negative of this?"

Sue pulled out a dozen negatives and began examining them, holding them to the light. "Here it is," she said.

Loren examined it ruefully.
 "What a cluck I am," he said. "I might have solved the great murder mystery with my little camera!"

When Finn arrived a few minutes after Mark had telephoned, it was apparent to me that something had occurred since the morning to restore his self-confidence. The worried indecision which had characterized all his actions since he had arrived to Hunt for Vail's mur-derer had gone. He looked ruddier, bigger, completely assured. His manner was jovial. "I had a feeling that this was the genuine Finn—a big, hearty man pleased with himself and with the way life had treated him. He greeted us all in a loud voice and said to Mark with just a suspicion of condescension,
 "Well, Mr. Hillier, what can I do for you? Want me to make you a deputy for that lucky hunch you had this morning?" He winked broadly at the rest of us.

Mark smiled gently. "No, don't shower me with honors, please," he said. "I merely wanted to show you this photograph of Lakeside Cottage, taken at 2:30 yesterday afternoon."

PATTERN 9175

Here's a coat-dress you'll live in for smartness, for warmth, in town or country. Designed along lines that will flatter almost any
 novelty woollens so fashionable this season. The front buttons up to the trim little collar, and the semi-belted effect at the waist permits the sweeping line from shoulder to hem. Patch pockets are not only in this year, they are on practi-

Science Pushes the War On Infantile Paralysis

Two Scientists Bravely Test Value of New Vaccine as Preventive of Dreaded Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

IT is not unusual to read in the newspapers about outbreaks of infantile paralysis in different sections of the country. An epidemic along the Pacific coast aroused considerable uneasiness. At last accounts there appeared to be no marked increase in the number of cases. That situation was not particularly alarming because the cases reported seemed to be of the mild form.

As a result of the outbreak of infantile paralysis, or "anterior poliomyelitis," as it is medically termed, begin to appear during June and July. As the summer progresses the number of cases increases until about September. When the cold weather sets in there is a gradual decline and by December few cases are reported.
 But at any season there will be some.

The disease is likely to attack children, but it also attacks adults.

Cause Not Known

The actual cause of the disease is not known. Since the germ of infantile paralysis has never been determined, medical science has not yet been able to perfect a means of guarding against the infection. It is believed to be a "filterable virus," an agent so small it cannot be seen even with the aid of the most powerful microscope.

The fact that it is minute has been established. This is the fact because solutions believed to contain the germ are not purified by being passed through a very fine filter.
 This circumstance has given rise to the name "filterable virus."

Several scientists in New York have recently attempted to develop a vaccine which would give definite protection against the disease. The

Prince Hurries to Aid Mrs. Vanderbilt Refute Charges Trying to Retain Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Speeding to the defense of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, who is fighting to regain custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Prince Gottfried Hohelohe was to arrive today on the Bremen.

At about the time that the ship bearing the prince is steaming into the harbor, witnesses for the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, will be taking the stand before Supreme Court Justice Carew in an effort to show that Mrs. Vanderbilt is not a fit guardian for her little heiress daughter.

Earlier in the hearing, a maid testified that she saw Prince Hohelohe, clad in pajamas, lying by the side of Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was weeping.

DENIED ALLEGATION
The prince denied indignantly that there had been any impropriety and immediately arranged for a quick trip to New York to testify in Mrs. Vanderbilt's behalf.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Vanderbilt's

twins, Lady Furness, and her brother, Harry Hays Morgan, have prepared to take the stand in opposition to their mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan.

Mrs. Morgan is backing Mrs. Whitney in the latter's fight to retain custody of the child. In doing so, Mrs. Morgan finds her four children lined up squarely against her. Lady Furness, in particular, has expressed "amazement" at her mother's actions.

Today's first witness in the heiress corpus proceedings will be Agnes Sattler, beauty parlor operator in the Hotel Chatham, who will testify in Mrs. Whitney's behalf.

The three Morgan daughters, Lady Furness, Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, will take the stand on Wednesday to fight Mrs. Whitney's action.

While the sensational case moves ahead, friends of Mrs. Vanderbilt, shocked at what they believe to be the unfairness of the charges

They pointed out that most of the witnesses against Mrs. Vanderbilt have been disgruntled ex-servants. One of the charges against her was that she lived with little Gloria Vanderbilt in a rat-infested "hovel" in Paris.

This "hovel" it turned out was a mansion on the Avenue Charles Floquet. Like most of the other older and grander buildings of Paris, it was not free from rats. Mrs. Vanderbilt's friends insist, but a strictly rat-free domicile could not have been obtained in all of Paris.

Another accusation—that Mrs. Vanderbilt was addicted to champagne—was likewise repudiated. Moderate use of this beverage, it was pointed out, was quite common in the circles in which Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Vanderbilt moved, and was never taken as a sign of moral culpability.

Paralleling the "Jafsie" incident in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and intermediary volunteered his services in the Stoll kidnapping case through an advertisement in a local newspaper.

The "ad" read:
"Record of years of contact with those charged with crime proves me worthy of implicit confidence and trust."

"Positive transaction can be successfully completed through me considerably minimizing danger. Plans thorough. Telephone day or night. Wabash 4467 R I A H."

H. A. I. Rosenberg, who inserted the advertisement, is a local attorney. He said that shortly after the notice was published he received three telephone calls which he declared were "interesting."

MONEY UNTOUCHED
The $50,000 asked by the kidnaper in the ransom note left behind was still unclaimed in the general delivery post office section of a city outside the state. It was reported members of the Stoll family were waiting for word to transfer the sum to another "pickup" site.

Although federal agents declined

to express a definite theory as to whether the crime was committed by a professional "snatch" gang International News Service learned that operatives had been sent to Toledo, O., to check on the whereabouts of the remnants of the old "Purple Gang" of Detroit.

It was reported that former mobsters of the "Purple Gang" had transferred headquarters to the Ohio city which is only four or five hours ride in a fast auto from Louisville.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Automobiles throughout northern Indiana patrolled highways today, on the watch for Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, 36-year-old Louisville society leader.

The alarm was spread following the report of a gasoline station attendant here that the kidnapped woman, her head swathed in bloody bandages, was in the rear seat of an automobile whose driver stopped at his station yesterday afternoon to inquire directions to Chicago.

BLACK CHAMPION

Dewey C. Black, Columbus, won the Pickaway Country club golf championship Sunday, defeating Joe Woodyard, of Chillicothe, four up and two to go.

Black scored 46-45-43-43 on the 36 holes with Woodyard tallying 49-45-43-42.

MANY VICTIMS OF

Isaly, deputy sheriffs reported, is a student at Miami University.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—A locomotive engineer at the wheel of an automobile on his day off, picnic bound, failed to stop, look and listen at a grade crossing. Five persons died. The dead: Fred Hochstadter, Blue Island railroad yardmaster; his wife, Helen; their children, Herbert and Jean and Mrs. Ethel Patno, wife of the engineer-chauffeur. Patno was critically injured. The crossing tender said the gates failed to work.

GALLIPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Two men had been carried to their deaths today when an airplane plunged into the Ohio river.

Johnson Is Through

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson returned to private life today, his resignation as National Recovery Administrator, formally becoming effective.

The resignation of Miss Frances (Robbie) Robinson, his $6,000 a year private secretary, also became effective today.

Johnson has rented office quarters in a downtown building but refused to state what private pursuits he intends to follow. He is testing at Walter Reed hospital.

William Burnell, 32, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., and William Graham, 28, of Ashland, Ky.

According to authorities, the two men had chartered the plane to take passengers aloft but they were flying alone when the accident occurred.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15.—A glider had caused the death of its pilot today after it crashed at Crosley airport here from a height of 200 feet.

Joseph Swan, 30, of Middletown, who was guiding the motorless craft was fatally injured when he was caught in the splintered ship. He died several hours after the accident from a fractured skull and multiple body injuries.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—Greater Cleveland in the midst of its campaign to cut down automobile fatalities, today counted its highest

Sunday traffic toll in years—seven deaths in one day.

Two of the accidents happened in Cleveland, the others in suburban communities. The deaths in the city brought the toll for the year to 175, or 26 more than the death list for a corresponding period of 1933.

of the Year!

PATTERN 5227

If you want to be at all in the swim this year, you must be as frivolous and gay as possible when it comes to gloves. Of course, this crocheted pair is gay but it's a most substantial and practical pair at the same time. The cuffs are, of course, the making of them—they're done in a simple pattern in a contrasting angora wool. If you prefer you can use any other sort of wool, too. For angora has a furiness that is just charming.

The glove itself is in a close stitch that, though warm, is still dainty and makes a dressy glove.

In pattern 5227 you will find detailed instructions for making the gloves in a large, medium and small size. Illustrations of the gloves and all stitches used; and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Circleville Herald, 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

ADA SCHOOL PLANS REUNION ON OCT. 20

ADA, Oct. 15.—Plans for the entertainment of hundreds of "old grads" in the annual Homecoming trek here Saturday, October 20, were completed today at Ohio Northern university, and officials in charge predict the greatest attendance in the history of the institution.

Interest, of course, will center on the annual football contest—this year the foe is Capital university. Once again the "old grads" are inspired to return, this time in the firm belief that Ohio Northern will win, thereby breaking the cruel spell of a jinx that has ruined many a homecoming day for the Polar Bears.

DALEY ACTIVE IN TEACHERS MEETING

E. L. Daley, superintendent of city schools, will have a part in the Central Ohio Teachers association convention in Columbus, October 26 and 27. He has been appointed a teller, and is chairman of the committee on "geography."

MURDER-SUICIDE DAYTON VERDICT

DAYTON, Oct. 15.—Domestic trouble was blamed today for what police described as a murder-suicide tragedy in which Margaret Hennessey, 40, was shot and killed and her husband's body was found later hanging from a rope looped over a rafter in a garage at the rear of their home here.

The tragedy was discovered by the couple's 14-year-old son, Charles, who found his mother's body. Police who were called to investigate, located the body of the boy's father hanging in the garage.

TURLEY ON TRIAL IN MILLER DEATH

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15. The death penalty was to be asked today of three judges sitting in the case of Marshall Turley, 55, accused of slaying Samuel Miller, night watchman in a clothing factory here.

Turley, who waived trial by jury, was first in Franklin county to use the new law which specifies that three judges may sit in place of a jury.

The death penalty request will be made by County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins.

ESTATE HEATROLAS

Sold Only By Stevenson's In Circleville

We Believe Estate Heatrolas Are the Greatest Coal Circulating Heater Ever Known to Man!

The one great patented feature that no other stove has, is the Estate Heatrola Interdiffuser. Let us show you. That alone gives you a lot more heat with less fuel.

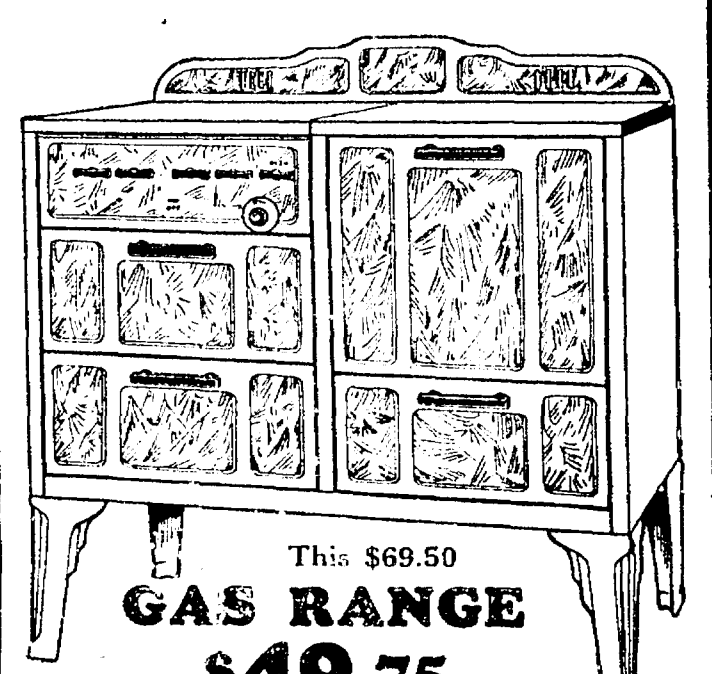

Estate Heatrolas cost no more than cheap stoves to obtain the same heat and they save their entire cost in a lower fuel consumption.

She Cannot Tell

She is trying to think of some excuse—an excuse that sounds reasonable—but she knows the story of suffering is plainly written upon her face.

There are no "bad days" for women who use VATONA. Suffering from periodical pain is as unnecessary as it is unnatural.

VATONA is absolutely harmless. It does not affect the heart. Unlike many pills and tablets made from coal-tar products, VATONA is a liquid vegetable base, that works directly upon the organs affected.
